

Fig. 5. Diagram illustrating the conclusions that can be reached from the data published here and presented in the literature. The figures in brackets are the average values for the range. The upper diagram represents mouse skin. Guinea-pig and human skin contain more cell layers.